

How to use the new BHFNC website

We have launched a new website which we hope you will find more user friendly and easier to navigate. The BHFNC website will keep professionals updated on all the latest developments in physical activity and health.

Homepage

On the homepage you will find details of BHFNC projects and training & events most recently added to the website. By clicking 'view more projects' or 'view more training & events' you will be able to view all BHFNC projects and training & events, in chronological order.

On the homepage, you will also find details of the most recent BHFNC publications and resources, along with key physical activity publications and resources from other organisations. By clicking 'view more resources and publications' you will see a full list of all BHFNC and external publications and resources stored on the website. All BHFNC publications and resources appear first in the list, followed by external publications and resources in chronological order.

The latest news section brings you up to date with developments in physical activity and health. It will also highlight conferences and events provided by external organisations. The most recent news will be displayed on the homepage, for all news items click 'view more news'.

Our areas of work

The BHFNC is committed to developing and promoting resources, training, information and guidance that will help professionals encourage people to be more physically active. Key project areas include:

- Young People
- Older Adults
- Primary Care
- Research and Evaluation.

Each of these project areas has their own section on our new website, where you can browse resources & publications, plus BHFNC projects and training & events relevant to this area. You can find our areas of work on the navigation bar on the left, or via the horizontal tabs on the homepage.

Resources and publications library

All key physical activity related resources and publications from the BHFNC and external organisations can be found in the resources and publications library. This library enables you to browse a comprehensive bank of documents by publication type, area of interest (e.g. older adults/ young people / primary care), publication date and publisher.

Along with reports, case studies, presentations and toolkits, all BHFNC factsheets, key document summaries, and physical activity updates can be found in the library.

The BHFNC Resources and publications library can be found by clicking the icon on the left hand side. Alternatively, to simply view a list of all BHFNC and external publications and resources, click 'view more publications and resources' on the homepage.

BHFNC Database

It is now easier than ever before to become a BHFNC Database member. To receive all the latest physical activity and health news straight to your inbox, click the 'BHFNC Database' icon on the left of your screen and complete the electronic form.

BHFNC Annual Conference

Interested delegates can keep up-to-date on all the latest BHFNC Annual Conference developments by clicking the conference icon on the left hand side of the home page.
